

Explorer Group Entertains

The Explorer group of the Irma United Church, under the leadership of Mrs. G. Theroux and Mrs. A. C. Milne, entertained the girls' mothers, the members of the WMS and a number of other friends on Wednesday, April 1st in the church basement.

Mrs. Theroux spoke a few words of welcome to the assembled guests and told of the work being done by the Explorers.

A worship service was then conducted by Margaret Glasgow, Marilyn Miles, Gayle Sampson, Gail Whidden and Velma Smallwood.

Maureen Gunn, as Keeper of the Treasure, then presented the Treasure Chest and its contents to Mrs. Inglis who received it on behalf of the WMS. Mrs. Inglis warmly thanked the Explorers and their leaders and expressed her appreciation of their many accomplishments.

An Easter dramatization followed. Those taking part were Mrs. Theroux and Margaret Glasgow who presented an Easter worship service, then Ramona Pendleton, Beth Milne, Darlene Hockett, Linda Prosser, Anne Jones and Gertrude Coffin dramatized part of the Easter story.

"Whispering Hope" was beautifully sung by the entire group. "Children Who Walk in Jesus Way" was another lovely song sung by all the girls.

There was a fine display of work done by the Explorers during the year.

Much fun and interest was aroused over the Shadow Contest. Mrs. Theroux and Mrs. Milne had gone to a lot of trouble to get silhouettes of many Irma folk and paste them on contrasting squares of paper. These were hung up and numbered, and the visitors were invited to test their skill at guessing who was who.

Following this a very bountiful lunch was served by the girls.

Mrs. E. Prosser was spokesman for the guests and moved a hearty vote of thanks to the leaders and the girls.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on Him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live.

For as the Father hath life in Himself; so hath He given to the Son to have life in Himself; And hath given Him authority to execute judgment also, because He is the Son of man.

Marvel not at this; for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear His voice.

And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation. —St. John 5:24-29.

Evangelistic Mission at Irma Apr. 22-May 3

REV. WM. SIBLEY

Rev. William Sibley, a former police officer who left his vocation to enter the Christian ministry, will conduct an evangelistic mission in the Alliance Church, Irma, from Wednesday, April 22nd through Sunday, May 3rd. The meetings will commence each evening at 8 o'clock, except Friday, April 24th, when the Alliance Church will cancel its meeting in order to co-operate with the Youth For Christ service which will be featuring the 65-minute film, "In Times Like These" in the Servicemen's Centre, Wainwright.

Rev. Sibley's meetings consist of vocal solos, poems that preach (for which he is especially noted), and timely messages from the Word of God. The last Friday night of the campaign will be Family Night with the program directed to the whole family. On the closing Sunday night of the campaign Mr. Sibley will give part of his personal testimony. He is a gifted and experienced speaker speaking with a humor no doubt inherited from his Irish ancestors. He is a graduate of the St. Paul Bible College, St. Paul, Minn., and has also attended pastoral counselling institutes at the University of South Dakota. Before entering the evangelistic field he pastored churches in Minnesota and South Dakota. He recently conducted a successful tour for Youth for Christ in Alberta and has conducted campaigns in various churches in Canada and the United States.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services to hear the 28th. H. policeman sing, preach, and excel in the field of elocution with poetry. We believe that all who attend will not want to miss a single service as this has always been the case where Mr. Sibley has conducted meetings in the past.

Freight Cars Plow Into CNR Depot and Elevator

Scenes of the derailment and damage to the CNR depot and the U.G.G. elevator at Kinsella last Monday, April 6th.

An eastbound freight train consisting of 119 cars passing through Kinsella, twelve miles east of here, on Monday, April 6, at 6:30 a.m., broke in two at the station when, it is presumed, a broken axle caused the derailment of seven cars loaded with lumber. One of the cars ripped into the office and waiting room of the depot and another crisscrossed the rails and damaged the front of the U.G.G. elevator just opposite the station, causing several bushels of barley to spill out of one of the lower bins and possibly doing other damage to the elevator foundation.

The other five derailed cars were strewn along the track and nearby ditches. Several yards of railway track were twisted and bent. The depot was heavily damaged when the freight car tore into it and pushed it off its foundation. It probably will have to be rebuilt.

Wrecking equipment was rushed from Edmonton and Biggar, Sask., and the line was cleared for trains to pass the wreckage at 5 p.m. The supercontinental passenger train from the east was routed by way of North Battleford to Edmonton. Other trains were delayed until the track was passable.

The accident drew a large crowd to Kinsella to view the scene and watch the large crane and crews at work. RCMP and railway police were on hand to keep the crowds at a safe distance, although one accident is reported.

Mr. B. C. Carpenter, CNR agent, some time ago moved his family from the station to his farm and there was no one in the station when the cars plowed into the depot, although it was said that a transient had slept in the freight shed and escaped injury.

Telegraph services were put out of commission temporarily. Railway officials are investigating the cause of the accident. It was reported today that a new depot will be built at Kinsella.

During Easter school holidays, the Assiniboia branch of the Saskatchewan Fish and Game League began their classes for the Junior Rifle Club and the Hunters Safety Course.

The local branch of the Fish and Game League was one of the very first such organizations that sponsored and promoted sound hunting practices and field safety among the younger hunters and sportsmen. In the past, attendance at these classes was very good and League members are looking forward to having an equal number of students again this year.

Boys and girls, 11 years of age and over are eligible to enrol for the classes. While making plans to attend, be sure to invite your parents and any friend who might be interested.—The Times, Assiniboia, Sask.

Our wives and mothers are "hardest working women in world" is claim

Despite all her gadgets and modern conveniences, the North American housewife is burdened with a work load that would stagger her "underprivileged" Asian sisters. So concludes the noted traveler and shrewd observer, James A. Michener.

He admits that the Indian peasant woman, for example, is up at dawn trailing cattle for fuel for the family fire, hauling the family wash to the river and lugging back water for cooking before setting out for a day of labor in the fields. But, he adds, "when they are through their work, they are through." Because there is more than one female to a household they don't have complex jobs waiting for them at home. Older women relatives in the family circle take care of the children and do the marketing, cooking, mending and dishwashing.

Perhaps the North American housewife doesn't have to labor as hard physically. But her job is still a harder and more complex one than those of her sisters anywhere around the world. This is particularly true if she has children. She may be expected to serve as a den mother, attend school committees, collect money for the local hospital, show some interest in the political life of the community and fill an important role in her husband's business life—all the while maintaining an above average standard of mental alertness and personal attractiveness.

The pressure on wives and mothers has become almost unbearably heavy. We ought to pioneer new ways to provide housewives especially those with children, with needed help, concludes Mr. Michener. And he has no patience for the critics who propose that if women stopped getting involved in community affairs they wouldn't need cleaning women or baby sitters. "I have had a chance," he writes, "to compare towns where women take an interest in libraries, hospitals, schools and youth groups, with towns in Asia where no one cares about such things. And I appreciate the tremendous contribution made by women. Concern for one's community and a desire to maintain one's intellectual capabilities ought not to be surrendered."—The Bulletin, Brooks, Alta.

Whoops! Too early

A four-footed denizen of Clarence Zorn's pasture found out too late it doesn't do to rush the season.

Mr. Zorn, who farms 2½ miles north of Oakshelba, reported his cat had caught a gopher in the pasture recently.

Guess Mr. Gopher was fooled by the warm spell of weather and figured it was spring. Let's hope his too-early venture up out of his underground home will be a lesson to other gophers.

But anyway, it does let us old humans know that spring is really on the way even though we can expect more snow and freezing temperatures for awhile.—The Independent, Windthorst, Sask.

Pheasant "lively"

If you find a full-grown pheasant in your back yard—don't be astonished. It could well have over-wintered here.

So thinks Gladys Elliott of Indian Head, who reported a perky adult pheasant in her yard. The bird looked as if it had had a good winter, she reports.

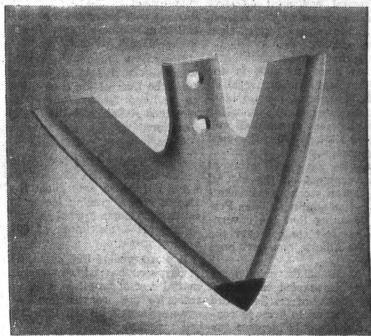

The pheasant might be one of those raised last season by Dr. Robertson and Smith Windsor, who had good success in maturing them from chicks in the province's conservation program. Some of the birds later went to a local farm for maturing.

Dr. Robertson at that time noted one characteristic of the pheasant was to panic straight up into the air when approached. This occurred with their young brood last season, and several birds vanished into the sky and neighborhood for no very startling reason. A few might have wintered in this community.—The News, Indian Head, Sask.

Alberta Legislature In Session

By Ken Mason
EDMONTON, Alta., April 3, 1959—Last week came to an end and the Legislature was still in session.

When members came back after the Easter recess they had high hopes they'd be able to pack it up by the weekend. These hopes began to sag by Friday, and on Friday night they fell with a sickening thud.

These were 35 bills on the order paper for clause-by-clause study. The idea was to get through them as briskly as possible and prorogue either Friday night or Saturday morning.

But Friday afternoon members managed to get through only four of the bills, and looming on the horizon was a major discussion of natural gas prices and gas export—a last-ditch attempt by Liberal forces to make gas an issue of an otherwise issue-less session.

Hugh John MacDonald, the Calgary Liberal who has been the busiest and most effective Opposition member this session, was in the thick of things right to the end.

He picked Friday morning to give an hour-long talk in the public accounts committee building in his careful, precise manner the government's handling of development at the pulp mill town of Hinton, 190 miles west of Edmonton.

Later he hammered away at the government on the natural gas question, working persistently to get an admission from Premier Manning that the government has lost control over the price the Alberta consumer pays for gas.

Mr. MacDonald's main worry as that gas export companies, holding control of gas fields, can be in a position to arrange contracts which would increase gas rates for Alberta residents.

The Liberals have taken the position that higher prices paid by export companies for gas will be reflected in higher domestic prices. They've argued in favor of a system of preferential prices for Albertans, but so far they've got nowhere with it.

At adjournment time Friday Mr. MacDonald and Premier Manning were disagreeing on whether the Board of Public Utility Commissioners has all the powers it needs to see that Albertans get a fair deal. But the matter wasn't finished by any means. Mr. MacDonald planned to bring it up again and aim another barrage of questions at the premier, who is also minister of mines and minerals.

Last week was devoted mostly to committee study of bills, and progress was slow.

The bill authorizing the government to make a start on 52 homes for the aged was finally approved, with three pages of amendments which were brought in as a result of Opposition questioning of loopholes and loose wording.

Another bill approved clears the way for chronic hospitals to be brought into the province's hospital insurance plan. The initial result is that between 600 and 700 patients in chronic hospitals are now paying $150 a day, compared with the $100 to $300 a month they have been paying.

The lieutenant-governor, Hon. Dr. J. J. Bowlen, was called into the House to give Royal Assent to these two bills and nine others which had to be in effect when the new fiscal year started April 1.

Jack Hillman, the Social Credit member for Sedgewick, gained himself a measure of notoriety last week by standing up and taking issue with the government twice in one day.

The first time he objected to an amendment to the Vehicles and Highway Act which permits the government to set a speed limit of 65 m.p.h. on four-lane highways. The present limit is 60.

Maybe we have a suspicious mind, but this one looked like it was staged. Obviously the Social Credit caucus considered the increased speed limit and approved it before the opposition went into the bill, or it wouldn't have been there.

But there probably was some Opposition to it in caucus. Last week's performance could have

Mr. Hillman moved that the 65 m.p.h. provision be deleted and he received some support from both sides of the House. But the votes for his motion were drowned out by those who favored the increased speed limit for four-lane roads.

The same bill, incidentally, allows the government to set speed limits below 60 m.p.h. on gravel roads where 60 is considered unsafe.

Mr. Hillman differed with the government on the five per cent interest rate charged on provincial farm purchase loans. He felt it should be 3 per cent.

Opposition members agreed with him and invited him to cross the floor of the House, but he declined the invitation and remained sitting with the Social Crediters.

Other highlights of last week's Committee of the whole studied a bill which cuts down the size of crown grazing leases in southern Alberta to enough land to support a maximum of 600 head of cattle.

It was revealed that since the government has taken over the capital cost of hospitals it won't authorize the construction of any new ones with less than 25-bed capacity.

J. H. McLaughlin (L.—Stony Plain) introduced a motion calling on the government to help provide better telephone service for rural areas.

Mr. Hillman moved that the 65 m.p.h. provision be deleted and he received some support from both sides of the House. But the votes for his motion were drowned out by those who favored the increased speed limit for four-lane roads.

The same bill, incidentally, allows the government to set speed limits below 60 m.p.h. on gravel roads where 60 is considered unsafe.

Mr. Hillman differed with the government on the five per cent interest rate charged on provincial farm purchase loans. He felt it should be 3 per cent.

Opposition members agreed with him and invited him to cross the floor of the House, but he declined the invitation and remained sitting with the Social Crediters.

Other highlights of last week's Committee of the whole studied a bill which cuts down the size of crown grazing leases in southern Alberta to enough land to support a maximum of 600 head of cattle.

It was revealed that since the government has taken over the capital cost of hospitals it won't authorize the construction of any new ones with less than 25-bed capacity.

J. H. McLaughlin (L.—Stony Plain) introduced a motion calling on the government to help provide better telephone service for rural areas.

Glen-Coo Gleanings

Deepest sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. P. Spring and Oren and Mr. Alfred Larson in the passing of Mrs. Jenny Larson last Sunday. Oren and Alfred arrived on Saturday in time to be with Mrs. Larson before she was called home. Her illness was very brief and her passing was a great shock to all. Everyone will miss the cheery smile of this dear little lady. Her daughters, Mrs. Jack Taylor and Mrs. Olson, were coming from the coast the first of the week.

Mrs. L. Hollinger went to Edmonton the first of this week to enter the Royal Alex. for medical purposes. We trust she will be back home in the near future much improved in health.

The Rev. Curtis Satre paid a brief visit here one day last week from Camrose where he was a teacher in the Sunday School Teachers' Institute. Mrs. I. Saugren accompanied him to visit at the R. Erickson home.

Mrs. Fluevog and girls, accompanied by Mrs. T. Larson and Mrs. E. Nilsson, drove to Camrose on Wednesday of last week to attend the Teachers' Institute, while Esther and Evelyn were to be among those who were special guests of Camrose Lutheran College. The girls had put aside a special day to give a reception to all young people in confirmation classes.

Mr. L. Satre accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gulbraa took in the bull sale in Edmonton before Easter.

Mrs. Alan Connolly and little son have been visiting at her parental home, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pedel.

Gerald Reber spent some of his Easter holidays with his cousin Arnold Lang near Hardisty. We hear that Gerald is going to give Don Cressy a hand now through spring's work.

The Outlook College choir was heard by some at Sedgewick on Wednesday of last week, and by others at Viking on Saturday evening.

Now more musical treats await all who come to hear them. Next Sunday afternoon, April 12, at 3:30 p.m. the choir of Mt. Zion Lutheran church of Edmonton will present at Sharon the Easter cantata under the direction of Mrs. L. Likness.

Then on the following Thursday evening, April 16, the Sedgewick Lutheran choir will present a sacred concert again at Sharon. We trust many will come to hear these choirs.

Mrs. Bill Lawson was the winner of the crib quilt in the Battle River Women's Club. It would be hard to find a more timely winner.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schick and family of Unity, Sask., were visitors with relatives in the district last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Likness were visitors to Holden on Monday.

The place to see most of ones' neighbors on Monday was up at the trackside at Kinsella. It is quite a coincidence that the Irma train wreck was just one year ago.

On Monday, Mrs. Bill Lawson and baby, Kathleen Ann, returned from the Viking hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morse have returned home from their visit with relatives at Bradner, B.C.

The Canadian Junior Red Cross sent relief supplies to assist youth in 26 nations in 1958.

"A TAXPAYER WORRIES"

Can anyone answer the nagging little curiosity I have about the CBC strike in Montreal?

It is a skeleton staff of supervisors and management could carry on the major part of TV programming all those weeks, what do the other 1,200 people do when they are on the job?

The 1,200 is the figure constantly reported as the number of CBC workers who refused to cross the picket lines set up by the 74 striking producers.

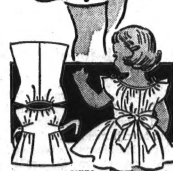

I have raised my question time and again during all sorts of discussions and arguments on the strike and none has yet given me an answer.

Now I realize that local hockey, the Plouffe family and the late movies were missing from Montreal's TV. I asked all my French speaking friends just how much they were being deprived of by the strike. They have all assured me they missed the hockey, but thoroughly enjoyed some wonderful and new French movies. They say they don't like the Plouffe family anyway.

I am full of sympathy for the CBC supervisors who worked around the clock and did double duty as announcers and other workers. I don't think for a minute it would be fair to expect them to continue such a pace.

I can understand too there must have been a lot of disruption of office routine and paper work which will take some time to straighten out. However, I just can't help wondering if all of those 1,200 people are really necessary. I also can't help wondering if their wages add quite a chunk to the perennial CBC deficit. Can anyone enlighten a simple taxpayer?

IN HIS SERVICE

Must know God from the heart

By JIM FAIRFIELD

Answer me a question. Do you know there are two ways of doing things, God's way and yours? In any situation that arises, natural instinct is often the wrong reaction, and if not wrong, is right but for wrong motives. Unless the action has been okayed by God, it will be wrong, even if it's right!

Let's take another run at that thought; it seems easier to slide up to than meet it head on. Any style, way or routine of performing an action is wrong for you, even if it is the properly practical thing to do, if it is done without God's permission or direction.

A man determines to improve his situation by diligent study at a night class. The course will give him skills necessary to receive promotion in his trade. He works hard, studies earnestly, and with vigour, throughout the term. His efforts are successful and he receives the diploma significant of his achievement. So?

Had the man been with God, perhaps he would have done just that—yet perhaps not. God might have had our friend go through half the year, then change to another course opening up a different career. Talents aren't always obvious; it takes the skillful leading of the Holy Spirit to bring out the better and best in a person.

Second Illustration

A busy housewife has a choice between a big ironing and washing the kitchen floor—and quick action will do just that. Then again, perhaps the nudging of the Holy Spirit will cause her to remember a responsibility to God. It may not take long, perhaps just a note and a prayer for an ailing friend, but it will make for a different morning.

Eyes can compare shoe shines and hair cuts, eyes can gauge health and wealth, but eyes of the flesh cannot measure peace and joy in the heart. Eyes register personality and individuality without seeing the fellowship of the Holy Spirit connecting the believer to God. Even so invisible, the difference is there—the Lordship of Jesus Christ. Some Christians are only baby-types, still living in a miserable in-betweenness, wanting Jesus' way yet reluctant to turn away from their brand of sin—like having one foot on the dock

Farmers draw battle plans for operation grasshopper

By J. J. McCONNELL

A panel of farmers discussed control campaigns in their respective districts. Panel members were Art Irwin, R.M. No. 6, Torquay; John Lautermilch, R.M. Graveburg; Bill White, Reeve local R.M. Weyburn; Harold Siggekow, Secretary-Treasurer R.M. Coronach; Fred Thibault, councillor, R.M. 77, Ponteix and panel chairman, Morley Crowle, Ag. Rep. Weyburn.

Mr. Irwin said that when farm people gained confidence in the power of chemical control that a very successful campaign followed. We organized the campaign through our R.M., he said, and hired a local grasshopper control supervisor.

Harold Siggekow, Coronach, said his R.M. had sprayed 78,000 acres last year. Farmers had saved many crops by a well organized community control campaign, he said. Publicity by Lex Rutherford, Ag. Rep. Ogema, had been very valuable, he said.

This year we would like to see a more uniform price for chemical among R.M.s, he explained.

This would help the 1959 campaign, he felt.

Fred Thibault, Ponteix, said most people had given their full support in controlling grasshoppers. He said early, shallow cultivation on stubble land had been very effective for control of grasshoppers and had reduced the need for spraying on some farms.

We had a special campaign to spray pasture land by aeroplane, he said. Bill White said R.M. 37 is red this year on the 'Hopper Map and expects a severe 'hopper attack. The local Agriculture committee had arranged meetings on 'hopper control and publicity by the Ag. Rep. had helped.

He felt the control bylaw was necessary for a good campaign.

Early shallow tillage is a good way to control 'hoppers, he said.

Mr. Crowle said, "The amount of crop saved was terrific as a result of the control campaign last year. We must not become apathetic this year just because control was so effective."

Mr. Lautermilch told the panel that his district had found that 'hoppers could be controlled by early community action. Farmers in this area have done a good job and we're ready for a good campaign this year, he said.

The R.M. allowed a discount of 10 cents per acre for spraying road allowances, he said.

and one in the boat. Yet, although harder to perceive, even in such univertuous, in-between lives, the difference is there. The Holy Spirit is there, the cleansing power of the blood of the Lamb is there—God's power to save and direct is there in the soul-life of the converted, born-again believer.

Must we hear?

Eyes will behold the person every time. It is the heart that must look for and see God and the cross of Christ. I lived half a lifetime without Christ, reasonably moral, apathetically church attending civilized citizen, but unconverted. I did not recognize a difference. To me, as to many, the blood of Jesus Christ is a rather gory and disconcerting part of ritualism—so I thought.

Not now, God showed me the difference, and I would not trade Jesus Christ in my life for anything. He can show you too, if you ask Him.

"That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold . . . might be found unto praise and honour and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ: whom having not seen, ye love; in whom, though now ye see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory, receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls."

Diefenbaker demonstrates he can say no

The ability of the Diefenbaker government to resist pressure groups continues to match its unassailable majority.

It was demonstrated before one of the groups which is often supposed to have most influence with the Prime Minister and his western-oriented cabinet.

The Prairie farmers' long-publicized "march on Ottawa" had been waved like a shotgun in the face of western ministers for months past. Their nerves remained remarkably steady. They gave the impression of men who were certain that the gun was not loaded—or at least not in this barrel. They proved to be right.

If every "march" brings as much to the railways, (which ran four special trains for 1,000 farmers), and as little to the shoe-repairers, the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. will soon be under pressure from shareholders to foment unrest on the Prairies and promote marches to Ottawa. Here, it was suggested, might be the answer to the loss on Crownpoint Pass grain rates.

The habit of saying "no" to pressure groups is likely to be fortified by Mr. Diefenbaker's experience with the thousand farmers.

He said it so firmly and so skillfully that nobody was mad; nobody felt gyped; and most of the western railway passengers left saying: "After all, what else could we expect?"

This was one of Mr. Diefenbaker's most skillful performances.

When he said "no" to the A. V. Roe Co. at Malton he allowed himself to be bitter against the company—both in the House and on a national TV political broadcast.

To the Prairie farmers he made no complaint of pressure. On the contrary he took nearly 15 minutes at the beginning of his long speech to assure them that "we are all Prairie boys together." The famous pioneering enterprise of his father in Northern Saskatchewan played its part. He recalled reminiscences and had them chuckling at his western anecdotes.

And then he said "no" firmly and clearly and blamed the farmers for making him say it.

He had stated the case against deficiency payments, he said, last summer. It would be producer-subsidy, inviting importing duties to apply counter-vailing duties against our wheat. The U.S., which takes most of our oats and a quarter of our barley, would certainly react against us. It would cost the Treasury a lot of money, much of which would go to the big farmers, who don't need it. It would only delay the proper technological changes in the Prairie economy.

None of these objections, the Prime Minister said, had been met in the farmers' brief.

"Go away and find answers to these, before you press us again." He even reminded them how well they do through the Crownpoint Pass rates—and said it with his anger waggling.

That was what the lemon came to. But it was so subtly suggested that the 1,000 almost liked it. —The Financial Post.

WARBLERS:

If you haven't already done so it is high time that cattle were sprayed for warblers. Now that there are systematic insecticides on the market, farmers should consider seriously the use of a systemic in the fall. Results from use of Co-Ral last fall have been very good, warble control has been good and cattle treated with this product have not been bothered by lice during the winter. Many of those who treated last fall feel that cattle treated in the fall have stayed in better condition than those not treated. It is something to consider.

CHECK GRANARIES:

Those bins with grain in them should be checked carefully now for any signs of heating or insect damage. There are two reasons for this, any damage which is starting will get worse very rapidly in the warmer weather and you have time now before land work gets too far under way to do a careful job of checking. If signs of damage are found it may be necessary to move or fumigate the grain.

FARM SAFETY:

As spring rolls around and the farm becomes a busier place, there is more chance of "accidents" happening. What we should remember is that most "accidents" don't just happen, in most cases they are caused, usually by failure to remember and obey safety rules. Everyone knows the basic rules of safety but ignores some of them because of haste or carelessness. Some things to watch are listed below. Don't adjust, oil or grease a machine while it is running. Don't carry passengers on tractors or machinery. Don't allow children to play where machinery is being used. Never move a tractor, truck or car in the yard without looking to see if a child is in the way. Be careful when operating tractors on roads or hillsides; they tip very easily.

Has Narrow Escape

Mr. Neil MacMillan had a narrow escape on Tuesday this week when he was returning from Mannville on a tractor. Tuesday was very windy and as he came to a patch of summer-fallow near the road in the Tankerton district, the air was simply black with blowing dust. Fortunately he kept well over to his own side of the road. A large truck was coming along behind and the driver did not see Neil. The corner of the box struck one of the big wheels of the tractor, damaging the wheel and splitting the tire. Neil escaped unharmd.

A delicious lunch was served by the lunch committee.
